Highly Sexualised Children's Library Books

	We Need To Talk About the Library Books Children Have Access To - The Gaslighting Needs to Stop	https://youtu.be/EDcMXjJvE6U
	We revisit the situation in public libraries in Ireland where children in the 12-17 age category are still having access to highly inappropriate library books due the inactivity of our child safeguarding agencies, and under the auspices of the library service and their Trade Union Forsa. We discuss a relatively unknown term in Ireland called Queer Theory, and how it's proponents disregard any notion of childhood innocence and hence promote exposing children to highly sexualised material from a very young age. The effect of Queer Theory has found it's way into our SPHE curriculum and into our school libraries, following an all too familiar path we've seen all over the anglosphere. The modern definition of Queer has nothing to do with being gay. It is a radical political ideology that targets children and youth through our education system and via books and online media.

	Jana Lunden, NWC founder and Lynda Kennedy, co-founder of IEA and NWC member, expose who is behind the sexually explicit and indoctrinating library books. Find out who the organisations are, how public funds and NGOS are pushing this and how it is coming from the top down! We give names as well and will continue to call out those who are not doing their duty to safeguard children. The books are still in front of innocent children.
